Description of the competition

To celebrate its 30th anniversary, and in order to promote musical creation, youth and the instrumental heritage of the Saint-Sulpice church in Paris, the “Association pour le rayonnement des orgues Aristide Cavaillé-Coll de l'église Saint-Sulpice, à Paris” (hereinafter "AROSS"), established at 332, rue Lecourbe, 75015 Paris, France, organizes, from 10 September 2020 to 21 November 2021, the day of the public final, a double composition competition (hereinafter the "Competition").

This competition is made up of two categories:

- a work for great organ ("Category 1"),
- a work for choir organ & voices ("Category 2").

Candidates are free to compete in either or both categories.

A prestigious jury chaired by Philippe Hersant will select 4 works per category which will be performed at a public final in Saint-Sulpice on 21 November 2021 (hereinafter the "Final").

At the great organ, Shin-Young Lee and Yoann Tardivel will perform two pieces each. At the choir organ, Loriane Llorca, Constance Taillard, Ronan Chouinard and Louis Jullien will each perform a piece with the choir “Ensemble Sequenza 9.3” directed by Catherine Simonpietri.

The jury will award a First Prize and a Second Prize for each category. Listeners in the church will vote to award an Audience Prize. Like all our concerts, the performer’s performance will be broadcast on a large screen in the nave and live on the Internet. Internet users will vote to award an Internet users Prize.

The purpose of the present competition rules is to define the rights and obligations of AROSS and the candidates (hereinafter the "Rules").

N.B. Thanks to the support of the Académie des Beaux-Arts and private sponsors, the costs for the organization of Category 1 (work for great organ) are already financed.

However, on 10 September 2020, Category 2 (work for choir organ & voice) requires additional financial resources (cf. crowdfunding campaign on Pro Arti). The call for applications in this category will be launched, depending on funding, in January 2021. The final number of singers will directly depend on the funds raised.

The works

Category 1: work for great organ

The work will be a new creation composed by taking into account the specificities of the great organ of Saint-Sulpice: instrument's composition, sonorities, balance, registration system.

Duration: 5 to 7 minutes.

The composition and the specificities of the great organ are available on the website www.aross.fr. Candidates will find links to historical and technical publications in French and English.

No visit of the great organ will be organised by AROSS to avoid inequalities regarding the geographical areas of the candidates. In addition to the documents and links on its website, AROSS might release videos showing some of the characteristics of the instrument.

Nevertheless, candidates are welcome to ask any questions on the functioning and features of the instrument in writing to the address composition@aross.fr. The (anonymised) questions and the answers will be posted online, in French and English, on AROSS website.

Category 2: work for choir organ & voices

The terms and conditions of this category will be defined in January 2021.

Conditions for participation

The Competition is open to artists of all nationalities, who have reached the age of majority (18 years old) on the registration deadline.

Competition participation is strictly personal and nominative. Each candidate may present only one work per category.

AROSS board members, as well as all persons having participated directly or indirectly in the organisation, realisation and/or management of the Competition may not compete.

Registration procedures, submission of works and application forms

A complete registration file including the following documents must be submitted, by email only, to composition@aross.fr, before the registration deadline set on 15 May 2021 (midnight French time), for Category 1. This file includes:

- the completed application form,
- for each category, a digital version of the score in PDF format, with the indicative registrations, edited under a music editing software. Scanned handwritten scores will not be accepted. The score must be completely anonymous, without the name of the composer, nor any form of signature (no extra musical elements of layout, etc.), allowing identification of the candidate,
- a text describing the work that will be published on the Final program (250 words maximum in Word format, in French or in English, ideally both),
- the authorisation for the performance, audio-video diffusion of the work, image reproduction and exploitation rights completed and signed,
- a biography in French or in English, ideally both (250 words maximum in Word format),

Submitting the complete registration form and payment of the registration fees constitutes participation and acceptance of all the provisions of the Rules. If a candidate wishes to withdraw his/her participation, all he/she has to do is request such withdrawal by email to composition@aross.fr.

Incomplete registration files will not be accepted.

Registration fees

The registration fee is €50 per category and must be paid before the registration deadline set on 15 May 2021 (midnight French time), for Category 1.

Please contact composition@aross.fr for payment.

Registration fees will not be refunded in case a candidate withdraws his/her participation.

Eligibility and pre-selection of works for the Final

Candidates in Category 1 will be informed by email of their eligibility no later than 22 May 2021. AROSS reserves the right to refuse the participation or eligibility of a candidate who does not comply with the Rules.

After ensuring that the scores are completely anonymous, AROSS will send the works to the president of the jury, only identifiable by a randomly assigned number during registration.

The jury will discuss via the Internet in order to pre-select 4 works per category for the Final.

The anonymisation will be partially removed after the pre-selection. The names of the candidates whose works have been pre-selected for the Final, Category 1, will be publicly announced no later than 1 July 2021. However, the correspondence between the works and the candidates will only be disclosed to the jury and the public after the deliberations following the Final.

Rehearsals with Partner Organists for Category 1

The pre-selected works will be performed by Shin-Young Lee and Yoann Tardivel (the "Partner Organists"). AROSS reserves the right to change the Partner Organists in case of incapacity.

Each Partner Organist will be assigned two works of which the composer shall be known. Indeed, Partner Organists and candidates are invited to work together for the Final. However, no modification of the musical text will be allowed.

The candidate will not be able to request a change of the organist who will be attributed for the performance of his/her work. Travel, accommodation and subsistence expenses of the candidates for the rehearsals and the Final will be at their own expense.

The hourly volume of rehearsals per piece will be established in consultation between the candidate and the Partner Organists when the works will be sent to them. Within the limits of the availability of the Saint-Sulpice church, AROSS will make the Cavallé-Coll great organ available and will ensure the fairness of the rehearsal slots. AROSS will provide registrants who are familiar with the great organ registration system.

The Partner Organists, as well as the registrants, will be bound to secrecy regarding the correspondence between the works and the candidates.

Public Final & performance of pre-selected works

The pre-selected works will be performed by the Partner Organists during a public concert in Saint-Sulpice on Sunday afternoon, 21 November 2021.

Prizes

For each of the two categories, the following prizes will be awarded:

First Prize:	€4,000
Second Prize:	€2,000
Audience Prize:	€1,000
Internet users Prize:	according to the donations made by Internet users during the Final

Deliberations, designation of laureates and proclamation of the results

The Jury may also decide not to award a Prize. Its decisions must be made by an absolute majority of its members, with the President having the casting vote in the event of a tie.

The jury's decisions are irrevocable. By participating in the Competition, each candidate undertakes to accept them and not to contest them.
